Lets be honest, the standard About Page can be boring. Details like, when someone first fell in love with photography or what schools they attended are most times better suited for Facebook. Heres whats really important to know. I love working with business people and creative professionals helping them to promote themselves, their services, their projects, and products. From the new attorney just passing the bar and struggling to make themselves known in a sea of competition, to the author or business person with a need to reach clients and markets or to the seasoned art buyer with a major client depending on them to deliver, you can count on me to bring professionalism, enthusiasm, and dedication to the project. Together we become a creative team with the singular purpose of developing outstanding images that hit the mark. No Rock Star mentality here, just a solid work ethic and a determination to create only the best possible images.
